Seattle, Wash. August 7th 1893.

To the Honorable Council of the City of Seattle.

Gentlemen:

The time in which I was to begin the delivery of the Book of Ordinances for the City having about expired and the Book being only about three-fourths done, I most respectfully petition your honorable body, for an extension of time to September 12th for the delivery of the first 100 copies and an extension of 30 days on the time for final delivery.

Reasons for delay are:

First: - The stoppage of work by the ordinance Commissioner to allow Ordinances not passed when work commenced but passed afterward to be inserted in their proper places.

Second: - The inability of the Commissioner and the City Clerk to make proper comparison of Proofs with the Records as fast as the printer could supply them.

Third: - The rushing of such a work would result in errors, and the Commissioner and Printers have at the expense of time endeavored to produce a Book as free from errors and as nearly perfect as possible.

That you will grant this request your petitioner forever prays.

Most respectfully

F. Anthony.
